Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

ARKANSAS county judges meeting at Little Rock today complain that the federal government expanded the pauper list many times, then thrust back upon the counties the responsibility of taking care of many people who prior to federal charity were able to take care of themselves.

Fay Hempstead, of Masonic Fame, Is Called by Death

Arkansan Received Greatest Honors in History of Masonry

A POET LAUREATE

Born in Little Rock, 1847, Served as Mason for 65 Years

LITTLE ROCK.—Fay Hempstead, 86, poet, lawyer, historian and a figure of nationwide prominence in fraternal circles, died Tuesday at his home 807 East Ninth street, after an illness of a year.

A life long resident of Little Rock, he next month would have celebrated the sixty-fifth anniversary of his entrance into Masonry, in which he received more honors than any other man in the history of the order.

His crowning honor was that of poet laureate of Freemasonry, which was bestowed upon him October 5, 1908, shortly before his sixty-first birthday in Chicago. He was the third man to bear this title. Robert Burns having received it in 1787, and Robert Morris of Kentucky in 1884.

Mr. Hempstead joined the Masons in 1863, at the age of 22, and in the ensuing 64 years devoted his life unceasingly to Masonic work.

For 53 years he served as grand secretary of the Grand Lodge of Arkansas, celebrating his golden jubilee as such in 1931. For 44 years he served as local lodge secretary, for 34 years as local chapter secretary, for 28 years as local council recorder and for 22 years as local commandery recorder.

Highlights of His Career
His death yesterday brought to a close an illustrious Masonic career, which contained the following highlights:

In 1881, received the Chapter degrees in Union Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. Served the chapter as high priest from 1886-87. Elected chapter secretary in 1887, remaining so until 1921. Made high priest in the Order of High Priesthood in 1887.

In 1882, received Temple degrees in Hugh de Payens Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar, and in 1883 was elected eminent commander. From 1902 to 1924 he served the commandery as recorder.

In 1883, received Council degrees in Occidental Council No. 1, Royal and Select Masters, which he served as chief illustrious master from 1887 to 1900 and as recorder from 1900 to 1922.

In 1881, was made grand secretary of the Grand Chapter of Arkansas, in 1889 was made most illustrious grand master of the Grand Council and in 1891 was made grand high priest of the Grand Chapter. From 1889 to his death, served as grand recorder of the Grand Chapter and the Grand Commandery.

In 1919 was elected grand commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Arkansas, which office he held for a year.

In February, 1894, received the Scottish Rite degrees, and on November 23, 1901, was knighted a Thirtieth Degree Mason and coronated an honorary inspector general by the Supreme Council.

In 1900, was made a member of the General Grand Chapter of the United States and in 1906 was elected general grand steward of the General Grand Council of the United States.

From 1921 to 1924, was most puissant general grand master of the General Grand Council of the United States.

He also sponsored the establishment of St. Albans Chapter, Order of DeMolay, for boys, in Little Rock in 1923, and for several years was head of its Advisory Council.

Mr. Conway delivered the charter of the Nashville organization Tuesday a week ago; and he will deliver the Prescott charter Thursday night of this week.

Sheriff Files for Senate Campaign

Three-Cornered Race Against Monroe and Timberlake

LITTLE ROCK.—John L. Wilson, of Hope, filed his corrupt practices pledge here Wednesday with the Secretary of State as a candidate for state senator from the 20th district, Hempstead and Nevada counties.

Sheriff Wilson's candidacy is the third, all being from Hempstead county, which alternates with Nevada in nominating for state senator.

The other two candidates are: Luke F. Monroe, Washington and Hope attorney, and present Hempstead representative; and H. W. Timberlake, farmer of Washington Route One.

Paris—Worry was manifested over the Japanese edict since the biggest French colonial possession, Indo-China, is near Japan. A Foreign Office spokesman said: "We are doing nothing except in connection with the United States, Great Britain and Holland."

No Concerted Action
LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Concerted action by the United States and Great Britain or any other combination of powers, against Japan's hands-off China policy is firmly opposed by the British government, it was revealed Tuesday night.

Such a move, even in the form of the mildest inquiries to Japan, was described as "entirely out of the question."

This information was taken as adding significance to a conference Tuesday between the American ambassador, Robert W. Bingham, and the Chinese minister here, at the latter's invitation.

In American quarters it was said Mr. Bingham was simply the listener at the party. He had nothing to say afterward, but it was indicated that the Chinese envoy wanted to explain the Chinese viewpoint. No proposals are being made on behalf of the Washington government.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, planned a statement to the House of Commons Wednesday. This was not expected to be of a startling nature since Great Britain is determined to exercise extreme caution. Independent inquiries were made by Britain to Tokyo Monday.

The Japanese declaration, issued April 17 by a Foreign Office spokesman, is described here "obviously in direct conflict with the 'nine-power treaty' regarding right to China. Bittin, however, is 'not going to fly off the handle,' it was said.

The official silence of Washington about the Japanese declaration was regarded as evidence of a change in American policy. Some British observers believed the unofficial treatment given the Japanese manifesto in America aggravated the situation. There have been no Anglo-American talks in London regarding the Japanese situation.

Mayor Knowlton opened the session by explaining that the city is confronted with a serious situation, by having a load of 2,466 indigent families returned to it by the government, compared to a load of 300 families assumed by the government last year. The mayor explained the appointment of the Special Relief Commission and introduced Dr. Sanders.

BRITISH TO GUARD

Their Ambassador Meets Japanese Command at Tokyo Conference

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The proposal of Japan to oversee Chinese foreign relations was on the list of topics President Roosevelt arranged to discuss Wednesday with Secretary Hull. Meanwhile, the world's capitals turned speculative eyes toward Washington, awaiting its move in a delicate situation.

British Uneasy

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The British government kept an attentive ear turned toward the Far East Wednesday as it cautiously refrained from commitments awaiting the results of the ambassador's conferences with Japanese officials.

With the report of the Tokyo meeting eagerly awaited, the House of Commons was hopeful of getting further enlightenment on the situation.

It appeared, however, this might not be forthcoming Wednesday.

Through its minister to Switzerland the Chinese government determined Tuesday to challenge Japanese declarations that Tokyo opposes foreign "meddling" in China.

The minister invited correspondents to Geneva to a conference at which he is expected to explain "the necessity of Chinese reconstruction and China's desire to obtain aid from other nations."

Other developments:
Tokyo—Foreign Minister Hirota had the task of explaining the April 17 manifesto—issued by subordinates without his consent—so as to satisfy the Japanese public, which approves it, and other governments, some of which are suspicious of it.

Washington—Strong indications were at hand that the United States will follow a policy of silence in the matter.

U. S. Denounced by Judges for 'Making Paupers' and Quitting

County Officials Assert Government Expanded Relief List, Then Turned Whole Burden Back to Local Treasury

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Three members of the Arkansas County Judges association, meeting in a special session here Wednesday, charged that the federal government's relief agencies made paupers out of poor people and then turned them back on the counties and cities to be cared for.

Judges Majors, of Yell county, Ethelridge, of Ashley county, and Deal, of Cleburne county, said that the government 18 months ago took over the care of a comparatively few paupers and enlarged the relief program until three weeks ago, when it turned back many times the number of destitute

The judges are attempting to formulate a plan by which to regain federal aid for the needy.

Says Bishop Hides 'Behind a Woman'

Federal Prosecutor Opens Argument in Trial of James Cannon, Jr.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—John J. Wilson, government prosecutor, told a District of Columbia jury Wednesday that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., had spent some of the anti-Smith contributions in 1928 "for his personal use."

Wilson made the opening argument in the trial of the Southern Methodist churchman and Miss Ada L. Burroughs on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal corrupt practices act by failing to report some $55,000 contributed by Edwin C. Jameson, New York insurance executive.

Wilson charged that Cannon "is trying to hide behind a woman's skirts."

President Seeks Immediate Power to Expand Fleet

New Bill Would Allow Roosevelt to Act at His Discretion

TO TREATY LIMITS

American War Strength Will Be Increased on High Seas

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt intends to ask authority for the forthcoming supplemental appropriation bill to start actual naval construction to bring the United States fleet up to treaty limits.

This would permit the president to begin construction any time he sees fit.

Legislation only recently enacted authorized a building program up to treaty limits.

The supplemental appropriation measure, totaling a little less than 1 1/2 billion dollars, will go forward to congress as soon as the revenue bill is finally framed.

The president has not decided how many ships, if any, of the more than 100 new ones authorized by congress, will be built at this time. However, he wants authority to use the new general funds for this purpose if he desires.

The 1 1/2-billion-dollar measure is a general lump-sum recovery appropriation, and 1/2 billion will be tagged for public works construction.

To Probe Silver
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A Treasury suggestion that the senate conduct its own investigation of the speculative silver market was studied Tuesday night after disclosure that two of a group recently active in urging re-monetization of the metal had, directly or indirectly, a financial interest in it.

Individuals who have been dealing in silver, was sent to the senate at its request by Secretary Morgenthau. It included the names of H. H. Vose, New York commission merchant, and Continental Can Company.

Robert M. Harris, president of the former and Carl Conway, chairman of the board of the latter, were members of a group, described by one of its spokesmen as a "Committee of Patriots," which gave a dinner Monday night for senators and representatives who have been associated with the drive for re-monetization.

Harris and Vose, the list disclosed, held a long position on a 25,000-ounce future contract calling for delivery next month, and acted as brokers in many silver transactions for other parties. At present prices, its contract would involve approximately $11,000.

Continental Can was on both sides of the speculative fence with a hedge on 200,000 ounces of the metal; as of January 30, against holdings of 200,096 ounces of spot silver. It held eight short contracts for future delivery of the metal involving 25,000 ounces each.

Neither Harris nor Conway, who are still in the city, arranging for a dinner to be attended by a thousand persons and to which all members of congress are to be invited, would make any comment.

Information Hard to Obtain
Morgenthau's suggestion for a senate inquiry was based upon the difficulty which he said the Treasury had encountered in assembling the information it wanted. Its own investigation.

5,000 on Trail of Outlaw Dillinger

Department of Justice Confident It'll Capture Slayer of 13

MERCER, Wis.—(AP)—America's million-dollar murderer, with a puny $25-price-tag on his head and the blood of 13 men across his bullet-grazed trail, mocked Wednesday an army of more than 5,000 officers who hunted him.

"We'll have John Dillinger before long," said the Department of Justice through its division of investigation at Chicago.

But there was no word of the desperado despite the intensity of the hunt.

Rumors flew, but all simmered down to the fact that he escaped Sunday night from the resort near here and has been unreported since.

Expect Big Crowd for Donkey Game

Kiwanis and Rotary Teams Meet at 8 P. M. Wednesday

Giving Hope its first taste of "jack-ass baseball," the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs will battle Wednesday night at the high school athletic field in a sport which has proved popular in other parts of the south—donkey baseball.

The donkeys arrived here Tuesday night, and will be seen in a parade in the downtown section of the city Wednesday afternoon. The high school orchestra and the town band from Stamps, headed by L. E. Crumpler of Magnolia, will also be in the parade. The performance will be repeated again Thursday afternoon with other community organizations taking part in the parade.

The winner of the donkey game Wednesday night will play a team composed of members of the Young Business Men's association Thursday night as a final feature of a Thursday Trade Day event.

In this novel sport all the players except the batter, pitcher and catcher are mounted on donkeys. As soon as the batsman pelt the ball he jumps on his steed, held at home plate by an attendant, and hits the high spots for first base.

Recently 17,000 fans turned out in Fort Worth, Texas, to see this novel, unique entertainment.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Parents Need to Guide Adolescent Children.

Probably the most discouraging epoch in the life of a child, to the mother, is the time of adolescence.

And not only to the mother, but to the child himself or herself. Also it is the most difficult for writers on training because each growing child now becomes an individual with a vengeance and no blanket rule of handling can be applied.

Moreover, there is a difference of opinion about freedom during these years. We read one day that we keep our children babies to long and deprive them of responsibility at an age when they should be learning to stand on their own feet. The next day we hear some master mind declaring that children during adolescence need more protection than ever, because they have no judgment and may pay too bitter a price for experience.

I cannot steel this dispute because I am on both sides, but I incline toward the latter.

A Romantic Period
During the fourteenth and fifteenth years especially, and even the thirteenth and sixteenth, depending on the boy or girl and their adult outlook, I think it necessary for mother and dad to be right on the job.

This does not mean that our children are not to be trusted, but they are likely to get confused. These are beautiful years when the world unfolds its doors to a new fairyland. The flowers are of a deeper, and more bewitching beauty, the moon a long shudder of delight, even a street car on a fence, or a row with your romance.

Look back and sigh for those lovely lost years and then try to realize that your boy or your girl is going through the same thing.

Therefore, we do not want them disillusioned or bitter. Nothing should spoil the emotional beauty of this time.

One thing that will spoil it completely for any girl is to tell her constantly that boys are not to be trusted. While it is true that some are not, I think one of the finest persons in the world is this very youth who is so cock-sure of himself and who springs surprises on us every day by his vagaries and comedies. As far as that goes, we could tell him that some girls are not to be trusted either.

We parents have two jobs to do. One is to keep youth's faith in youth, the other is to be entirely aware of the company these children keep, where they are and how they spend their time.

What Parents Can Do.
It is not wise to immerse a girl away from boys for too long. Such a plan has failed in too many ways. The "crowd" well-chosen and chaperoned (yes, chaperoned) is the best answer that I know. Plenty of parties in homes, mothers and fathers entering into the "crowd" spirit and learning to know the friends of these children.

There will be some trouble, of course. Time and again they will protest. Each day there will be a new problem to face. You will have to be very cheerful, very sympathetic, but firm.

Social and sex facts should be told to girls by their mothers and to boys by their fathers, and warnings are necessary; but to harangue on the subject forever may set distrust or resentment and in that way lies danger of another kind.

To keep the adolescent child happy and busily interested in something is very helpful. Hobbies should be encouraged and shared.

Corn-Hog Contract to Be Published

Production statements made by each farmer in his application for contract in the corn and hog adjustment plan will be published in the newspapers as part of the program for local administration of the adjustment effort, according to Frank Stanley, county agent.

The publication, which will be directed by the county corn-hog control association, is required in order to provide full opportunity for a local check on the accuracy of all production claims.

Five basic facts from the individual contract applications will be published: Corn acreage for the base period, number of pig litters farrowed during this period, hogs produced for market, and feeder and stocker hogs bought, as well as the number of corn acres contracted to be left out of production for 1934, will be included. Separate production figures for each of the two base period years, 1932 and 1933, will be carried.

The board of directors of the county corn-hog control association will make final decisions as to the exact form of publication, the allocation among local newspapers, and printing rates. The control associations, composed of all farmers who take part in the adjustment program, will be responsible for the publication costs.

The final date for completing corn-hog contracts closed April 1, Mr. Stanley stated. Publication of all contracts will be made immediately.

Are These Four Essentials in Your Cosmetic Cabinet?

This is a fine time to give your cosmetic cabinet a spring housecleaning. First of all, make a thorough survey of the preparations that you have on hand and decide which you want to keep and which ones you want to throw out. There's not a bit of use in saving creams that you never intend to use nor lotions that have lost their strength.

When the elimination process has been completed, make a list of the things you'll need during the forthcoming months. If the budget will allow, it's easier to shop for everything on the same day.

Get the four essentials first. Later on you can buy the "extras" that your individual type of skin requires.

First, stock up with a bland complexion soap. This, of course, is to be used every night before you apply cleansing cream. If you never touch your skin with soap and water, forget about special soaps. However, in the main, most women need a daily soapy cleansing as well as a creamy one.

A cleansing cream is your next important consideration. Select a light, quick-melting variety that is made by a reputable manufacturer. Remember that half-pound jars cost less in the long run than lesser amounts.

A tissue cream is next on the list. An astringent or mild astringent is the fourth essential.

Burns & Allen in New Saenger Film

"We're Not Dressing" Feature Thursday, With Bing Crosby

George Burns and Gracie Allen, "the nitwits of the network," make their fifth screen appearance in Paramount's adventure-film musical, "We're Not Dressing," which comes Thursday and Friday to the Saenger theater. They are featured with Bing Crosby, Charles Lombard, Ethel Merman and Leon Errol.

Burns and Allen made their screen debut a few years ago in Paramount's eminently successful "The Big Broadcast." They proved to be so popular that they were cast, in rapid succession, in "College Humor," "International House" and in the recent "Six of a Kind."

In "We're Not Dressing" Burns and Allen enact a pair of nut-naturalists, who are hunting wild animals in the South Seas. Off the coast of their island, a palatial yacht is shipwrecked. Its owner, a beautiful heiress, and a company of friends are cast ashore. With them is one of the yacht's crew, who pretends to become member of the company.

Though the heiress is besieged with suitors among her guests, she and the sailor fall in love—aided by the tropical moonlight.

Born Here in 1847
Mr. Hempstead was born in Little Rock November 24, 1847, the son of Samuel Hutchinson and Elizabeth Rebecca Beall Hempstead, on the site on East Markham street now occupied by the Brandon Stove company. His father was postmaster and an attorney.

During his youth, he was educated by private tutors and later, from 1859 to 1861, attended old St. John's College then located in the south end of town. From 1866 to 1868 he attended the University of Virginia, where he majored in law and academics.

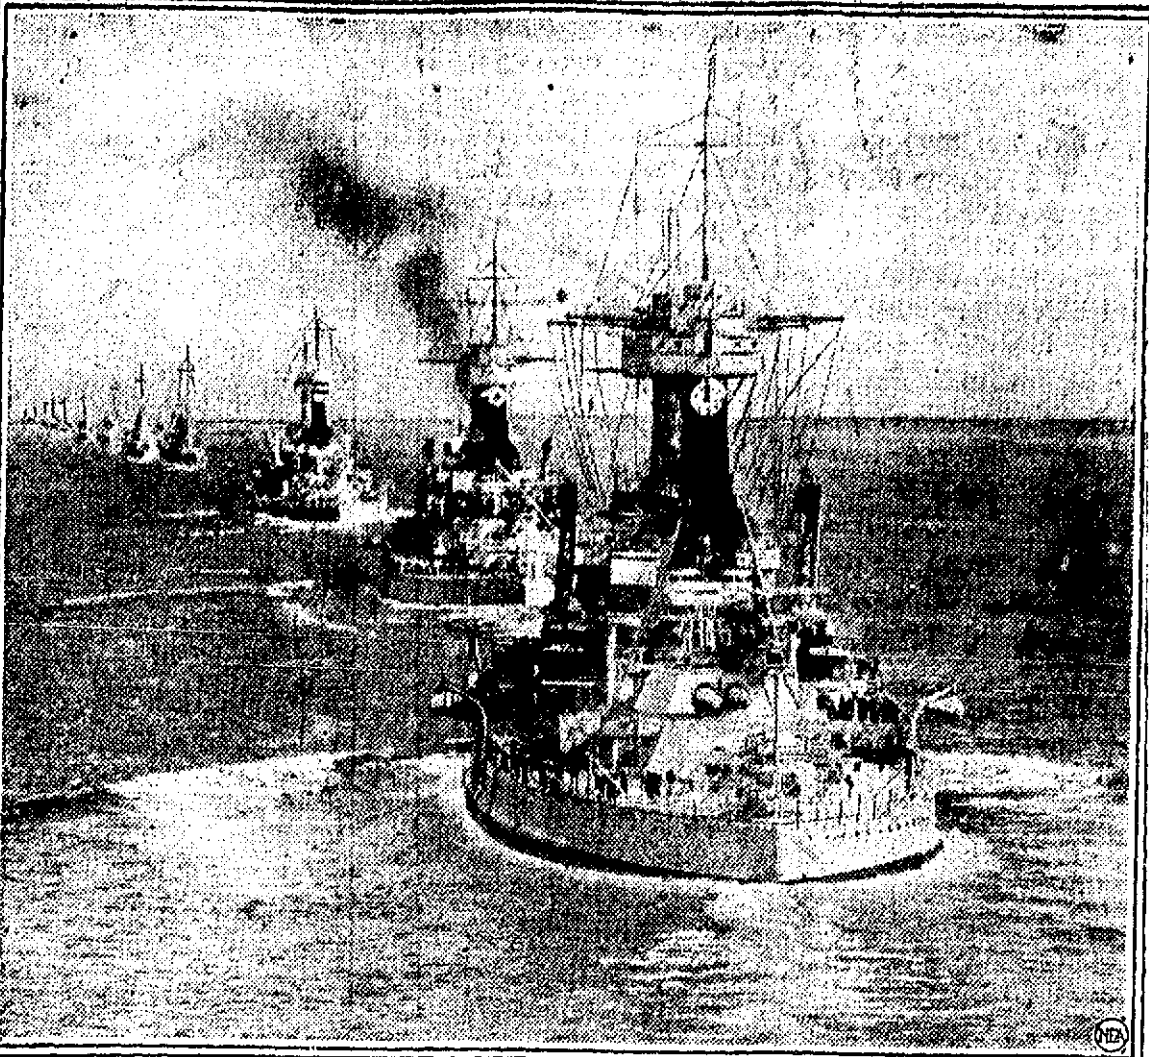

He returned to Little Rock to practice law. On September 31, 1871, married Miss Gertrude B. O'Neale of Charlottesville, Va., by whom he had seven children. In 1874 he became register in bankruptcy, and held this office until 1881, when, after his election to the office of grand secretary, he abandoned his law practice to devote all his time to Masonic work.

In spite of the fact that Feen-a-mint is the gentlest, mildest and nicest-tasting laxative, it has real action—a action that gently but thoroughly sweeps poisons from your system—cleanses the walls of the intestines and purges out putrid waste matter that is flooding the system with poisons. You can't get the laxative ingredients out of Feen-a-mint without chewing—and this chewing distributes the laxative uniformly throughout the intestines and supplies them with saliva juice to dissolve dry waste matter. Feen-a-mint contains a laxative ingredient that the world's greatest physicians approve. Don't suffer "laxative dread." "Delay" is dangerous. ## BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse
Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."

Because so many people know from having used it that Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.
